ANNOUNCEMENTS

DAVIS THEATRE.

Margarita Fischer in The Loneson art, a Great Mutual Masterpictur in Four Parts, for Friday and Saturday-Kenny and Hollis Vaudeville

In addition to the big vaudeville attraction, Kenny and Hollis, the funmaking college chaps, there will be a complete change of photopleys at the Davis today and the feature is another four-part Mutual Masterpicture, The Lonesome Heart, featuring the delight-part featuring are Markarita ully fascinating star, Margarita Fischer. The following is an outline when James Stuart laid the little baby girl en the porch of the county orphan asylum, he little thought that Sara Prue, the superintendent, had obed every movement. Neither was Dorothy Loomis, was embroidered on the shawl in which she was wrapped, and consequently that anyone would ever know that one-half of his wealth belonged to the infant, whom his partner, Dorothy's father, had left in his care. The child, who became known as Samanthy at the orphanage, grew into a dreamy, romantic girl. One ay, after being punished by Sara-rue for spending too much time read-Prue for spending too much time reading foolish love stories, she ran away and was found by George Stuart, son of James, who was hunting in the woods. The child's sad story appealed to the young man and he took her to the home of his old nurse. Later on, when he decided to adopt the girl, his father opposed the plan, and Samanthy, her dream shattered, returned to the orphanage. George, however, had fallen in love with Samanthy and followed her. At the asylum he found his father in conversation with Sara is father in conversation with Sara Prue, who was using her knowledge of Samenthy's identity to extert money from him. So, to ease his conscience, he told Samanthy she was an heiress, and a new life dawned for the nitherto onesome heart."

Margarita Fisher plays the part of Margarita Fisher plays the part of the orphan Samanthy with sympathetic charm and is supported by an excellent cast, including Lucilie Ward, William A. Carroll, Joseph E. Singleton and Robyn Adair. The Lonesome Heart will appeal to everyone, for it has that human interest that keeps the audience enthralled from beginning to end. Other pictures on the bill are The Assayer of Lone Gap, a great western drama, and Gussie the Life Guard, a screaming funny comedy. Concert orchestra at every performance.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The Plunderer, With William Farnum a Thrilling Romance of the Lure of

The first William Fox film producwhich, as already announced, be run at this house every Friday Saturday, will be shown today. when William Farnum will be seen in birds was r. The Plunderer, a five-part film version ington lane. of Roy Norton's famous novel, a short synopsis of which follows: Bill Matthews (played by William Farnum) and his young chum, Dick Townsend (Harry Spingler), halt their weary burros at a dusty wayside tavern in the foothills of the mighty Coeur D'Alene range. In the fast falling evening light Bill points towards a distant owering peak, slashed by a deep cross-haped formation of quartz. The setting sun gleams yellow on it.

"There she is, Dick," exclaims Matthews, 'the Croix D'Or, the cross of gold, where we're either going to peter out or become millionaires.

The Croix D'Or has been left to Dick in a strange way. The old mine, long abandoned, belonged to his father. The eder Townsend, dying, bequeaths the mine to Dick. Slade, the surviving partner of Dick's father's firm, has faith enough in the old water-soaked Croix D'Or to stake Dick, a mining engineer, to $100,000 to work the property till he strikes the hoped-for mother-lode. Dick, with Bill Matthews, his mining partner, sets out hopefully to mining partner, sets out hopefully to and Mrs. Elizabeth Shelley of New London are visiting Mrs. Rutherford H. Snow of Huntington avenue.

Bill perseveres and at last they dis-cover an abandoned gallery which brings them out high on the hillside. They stumble by chance on the site of the boulder that almost cut off their existence. Near by lies a freshly-hewed sapling that has clearly been used as a lever to distodge the big stone. They realize then that a deliberate attenue has been made to rate attempt has been made to murde them.

In Goldpan, the mining town adjoining the Croix D'Or, the partners meet the woman proprietor of the camp's liveliest dance hall. She is Lily Meredith, "The Lily" (Elizabeth Eyre). The Lily is the enigma of Goldpan. Although she is engaged in the question. ough she is engaged in the questionable business of conducting a hurdy-gurdy, no one in that rough community dares utter a word against her character. As for The Lily herself, she is cold, haughty and disdainful; even to those who knew her best. Matthews painfully burns himself reacuing a dance hall girl from a fire in The Lily's place. His bravery excites The Lily's interest. Bill, for his part, falls head over heels in love with the mysterious Mrs. Meredith.

is in despair. But Bill Matthews takes to the trail. Pedro, the miscreant who blew up the reservoir, is traced and pays the death penalty at the scene of his orime. As he is launched into eternity he shrieks out blasphemously that he, at Presby's orders, has made all the trouble at the Croix D'Or. Then somes the partners' great discovery. They find out that Presby has tunnel-

Springfield Missionary at Sacred Heart Church Preaches on Vital Themes-C. E. Musical Hour-Freak Ear of Corn-Personal Items.

The mission at Sacred Heart church is well attended this week. Nearly every seat was occupied Wednesday evening. Thursday morning communion was given at 8 o'clock, before the instruction. The children's confessions were heard Thursday afternoon, Rev. Carroll Rosensteel, C. M., of Springfield, Mass., preaches every evening. One subject treated was Good Litera-

One subject treated was Good Literature.

We can't keep our hearts pure, said the missionary, if we read poor literature or have poor literature about our homes or offices. Don't be a scandal to others. We must read improving things in order to serve God. You mustn't be content with a few words Sunday; you must keep alive through the week and be on the alert for your soul's salvation. You must read about bigness of soul, about men who are worth while; it will give you a new ambition. You will find nothing more wonderful than the life of Christ. Raise yourselves out of the rank and file and be worth something.

Every man and woman should be an apostle of the faith. If you have a clear idea of your own faith you can do wonders. There is no good in controversy, yet the origin and continuance of the church can be explained to others. As you understand your faith better, you will live it better. Have an ambition in this world and in the spiritual world. Find books that will put strength into your character. Realize the desire to be the man God meant you to be.

Another sermon was upon Life. A soul is saved or lost as its life is directed for or against God, the preacher began. Our body co-operates with our soul in salvation. The good God is behind every good purpose.

preacher began. Our body co-operates with our soul in salvation. The good God is behind every good purpose. What is the good purpose for which things about us can be used? It is the universal law of nature that whatever is good should not be destroyed. There is nothing so valuable as human life; the sins against it are most wrong. It is a sin to waste or destroy life merely to find pleasure in dissipation.

life merely to find pleasure in dissipation.

God has ordained marriage. Everything blessed by God must be used for a good purpose. Mothers, your wedding ring is sacred because the blood of Christ is sprinkled there. The speaker mentioned the more stringent laws regarding marriage in the Catholic church since 1908, also laws relating to relationship by marriage or blood. In some cases dispensations may be obtained. The college of 70 cardinals is presided over by the pope and decides these questions. You can't have the highest form of marriage where there is a difference in religious belief. In this case can there be congenialty of soul?

Your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost. A sin against it has God's curse upon it. The poisoning of the mind is a mortal sin. Christ died for you; what have you done with your life?

This week Albert Miner of Hunting-ton svenue found an ear of corn on a stalk which when examined was found to consist of thirteen perfectly formed ears of corn, with sik on each ear, yet all joined together. Had Musical Hour. Members of the First Congregational Christian Endeavor society met on Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Miss Calla R. White, on Peck's Corner, for a musical hour.

ed under their property from the Rattler workings and is tapping the long-sought mother-lode of the Croix D'Or. This discovery means for Dick a struggle between love and duty; for the plunderer is Joan's father. COLONIAL THEATRE.

Henry Walthall in The Woman Hater, Magnificent Essanay Drama.

There is a delightful treat in store for everyone who attends the perform-ances at the Colonial theatre today, for Lily's place. His bravery excites The Lily's interest. Bill, for his part, falls head over heels in love with the mysterious Mrs. Meredith.

Bully Presby's malign influence still acts against the partners. They face a strike at the mine brought about by his instigation. The men, in ugly mood, desert the mine and congregate in Goldpan.

With the strikers replaced by new men, work at the Croix D'Or goes forward again. Then the supreme blow falls. The dam which furnishes power for the mine is dynamited. Dick, who in the meantime has met and fallen in love with Presby's beautiful daughter Joan (Claire Whitney), from the east, is in despair. But Bill Matthews takes to the trail. Pedro, the miscreant who blew up the reservoir, is traced and pays the death penalty at the scene of his orime. As he is launched into eteraity be shrieks out blasphemously that they are constantly they are constantly in the mean in the most temperamental man in the most temperament flounder about until he is able to reach her with a boathook. During hunting parties they are constantly thrown into each other's paths and finally in an impetuous burst of emotion he makes something that sounds like a proposal. The girl does not let the opportunity slip and promptly arranges wedding details. During the picturesque ceremonies the groom-to-be suddenly loses his nerve, and dashes from the church, and is followed by an avalanche of motors and brought back to the excited wedding party. The closing of this drama is one of the most convulsing scenes ever shown at the Colonial and is easily another triumph for the popular playhouse to of-

Why Not Have

Curly, Wavy Hair?

While abroad last year, a matron much envied for her youthful looks, generously confided to me several little beauty secrets which I prize highly. One of the best of these is that straight hair can be made wavy and curly over night by merely applying a little liquid silmerine. Some peculiar attribute of this harmless fluid causes the hair to dry in the most exquisite curls and waves, having all the appearance of true naturalness.

waves, having all the appearance of true naturalness.

My friends who have tried this are simply delighted. I find that pure liquid silmerine tan be procured from any druggist here, and a few ounces will keep the hair in curi for several weeks. There's nothing gummy, greasy or messy about it; on the contrary, it is quite pleasant to use. I'm sure if you will try this tonight—apply with a clean tooth brush—a look in your mirror tomorrow morning will give you a most agreeable surprise.—Anita Amber's "Beauty Talks."

POETRY

THRALL TO THE WIND.

Ob, the wind is in the cedars, and the wind is in the paims.

And I listen to its murmur like the sound of many paalms!

Oh, the wind is in the mangroves, and the live oaks how they sway.

And the leaves of the banana bear the burden of its lay!

Serene, I fold my hands and walt, Nor care for wind, or tide, or ses; I rave no more 'gainst time or fate, For lo! my own shall come to me.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears. The stars come nightly to the sky; The tidal wave unto the sea; Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor
